

Fischer Andreas: Accounting for Share-Based Compensation

Companies and banks have increasingly remunerated their management and employees via share-based compensation by granting their own shares and options on their own shares. The paper describes the current accounting rules and proposed rules and elections under IFRS and US GAAP.